ANNOUNCEMENTS *continuedINTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM*CLIMATE CHANGE IN THE GREAT LAKES REGION: DECISION MAKING UNDER UNCERTAINTY

Thursday, March 15 - Friday, March 16, 2007

Kellogg Conference Center

Michigan State University

East Lansing, MI

Making decisions about how to respond to climate change poses a significant challenge. What we know about climate change is both complex and uncertain. Yet there is good reason to believe that climate change would affect many critical elements of Michigan's ecosystems, infrastructure and economy. The right decisions could help to mitigate those impacts or allow us to adapt to them. We believe more and better science could aid in decision-making. But science will be helpful only if it asks the right questions and answers to those questions can be used effectively by decision makers.

Michigan State's Environmental Science and Policy Program, with support from the National Science Foundation, is starting a process that will help identify the kinds of research that needs to be done and the best ways to provide the results so they are as useful as possible to Michigan's decision makers.

The symposium will feature speakers on the effects of climate change in the Great Lakes Region, decision-making under uncertainty, and adaptation to climate change impacts.

Accepted Speakers:

Jeff Andresen, Michigan State University

Historical Climate Trends in Michigan and the Great Lakes Region

Joe Arvai, Michigan State University

Five Obstacles to Effective Climate Policy: A Decision Science Perspective

Bill Easterling, Penn State University

Climate Change and Agriculture-Is Uncertain Information Usable Knowledge?

Scudder Mackey, University of Windsor

Climate Change Impacts and Adaptation Strategies for Great Lakes Nearshore and Coastal Systems

Linda Mortsch, Environment Canada

Decision-Making in the Great Lakes: Challenges of Mainstreaming Adaptation to Climate Change

Susi Moser, National Center for Atmospheric Research

The Contextual Importance of Uncertainty in Climate-Sensitive Decision-Making: Toward an Integrative Decision-Centered Screening Tool

Terry Root, Stanford University

Global Change in Plants and Animals: A Fingerprint for Warming & Evidence of Cause

Joel Scheraga, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency

Linking Science to Decision Making in the Great Lakes Region

Steve Schneider, Stanford University

Key Vulnerabilities and the Risk of "Dangerous" Climate Change

Barry Smit, University of Guelph

Incorporating Adaptation to Climate Change into Farm Management and Agricultural Policy

Elke Weber, Columbia University

Better Decision Making Under Climate Uncertainty: Lessons from Psychology

Julie Winkler, Michigan State University

Philosophy, Development, Application, and Communication of Future Scenarios for the Pileus Project

We welcome researchers, policy makers, and other Great Lakes Region stakeholders to attend this important event. Multi-disciplinary panels will serve as discussants. The Environmental Science and Policy Program is happy to offer this symposium free of charge; however, we ask that you please register if you plan to attend.

INTERNSHIP OPPORTUNITIES: INTER-AMERICAN DIALOGUE SUMMER 2007

The Inter-American Dialogue offers full and part-time volunteer internships in the Fall, Spring and Summer semesters for students interested in the dynamics of inter-American relations. The Dialogue is a forum for sustained exchange among leaders of the Western Hemisphere and an independent, nonpartisan center for policy analysis on economic and political relations in the Americas. It regularly convenes U.S. and Latin American leaders from the public and private sectors and diverse political perspectives to search for cooperative responses to hemispheric problems. Covering a wide scope of issues, it is engaged in an ambitious effort to improve the quality of debate and decision making on U.S.-Latin American relations and to promote new opportunities for hemispheric political, social, and economic cooperation.

Responsibilities:

- * As assigned, assist the president, associates and staff with research and writing on current issues affecting U.S.-Latin American relations. Program areas include democracy and human rights, multilateral governance, trade and economic relations, women leaders, and education policy reform. Country specific and regional topics (i.e. Central America, Cuba, Brazil and Peru) are also monitored
- * Attend and report on Washington-area briefings, working groups, and meetings
- * Write articles for Dialogue/Diálogo, the newsletter of the Inter-American Dialogue
- * Perform administrative tasks including: compiling press clippings, assisting in conference organization and outreach, editing and translating documents, and intermittent copying, faxing and mailings

Qualifications:

- * Undergraduate or graduate students majoring in the social sciences with a focus on Latin America/Caribbean
- * Demonstrated research and writing ability, plus excellent communications skills
- * Interest in the economic, social, and political issues affecting the Americas
- * Proficiency in English and Spanish and/or Portuguese
- * Computer proficiency in MSWord, Excel and the Internet.

Duration:

A minimum of eight 16-20 hour weeks are required during the Fall and Spring semesters. Summer interns are expected to work full-time (30-40 hours per week).

To Apply:

Please submit a cover letter, resume, brief writing sample (1-2 pages) and one letter of recommendation to the "Internship Coordinator" at the address below. Applications are accepted throughout the year; however please note the following deadline

ANNOUNCEMENTS *continuedTHE MSU INTERNATIONAL PREDISSENTATION TRAVEL AWARDS - 2007

DEADLINE: MARCH 30, 2007

Download the Application Form (PDF) (http://www.isp.msu.edu/deadlines/dead\_2.php)

Applications are being solicited for the 2007 Predissertation Travel Awards of up to $5000. These awards are designed to provide funds for MSU PhD candidates in the predissertation stage in the Colleges of Agriculture and Natural Resources (CANR), Arts and Letters (CAL), Education (ED), and Social Science (SSC) for travel outside of the United States during one or more of these semesters: Summer, 2007, Fall, 2007, and Spring 2008.

Purposes: These awards support travel abroad to your intended dissertation research site for a minimum stay of 60* days in order to immerse yourself in the international research site; investigate the appropriateness of the research problem and methods; identify university, research institute, or NGO partners with which you will affiliate; identify collaborators or mentors in the country; increase your language proficiency; and obtain letters of affiliation or sponsorship from local institutions. The program seeks to assist MSU graduate students to develop competitive dissertation proposals in national fellowship competitions of the Fulbright, NSF, SSRC, and similar programs.

Who is eligible: U.S. and International PhD candidates in CANR, CAL, ED, and SSC, who are planning dissertation research in a country outside of the United States, and who have not begun the research.

Awards: Up to $5,000 for reimbursing costs of international and local travel, lodging and meals per diem in the international country, and associated costs in the country (duplicating, taxis, affiliation fees, etc. - no equipment). The award may be used in conjunction with other funding, but will be adjusted accordingly.

Requirements:

- * Plan a minimum foreign stay of 60* days in the target research country(ies)
- * Demonstrate plans to submit proposal(s) to national or international competitions before, during, or after the predissertation experience
- * Complete and submit a report on the experience within 30 days of return to MSU
- * Have verification by your academic department that you are a doctoral student in good standing

* Have a letter of reference and support for the travel from your academic advisor and/or research advisor

*The student may request a waiver of the 60 days and provide a rationale for the exception. The committee will consider these requests on an individual basis
