January 30

Kedi (Cats) Film Showing

5:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.

303 International Center

Sponsor: Center for European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies

Event Details: This is a Film Screening of “Kedi” (Cats), a profile of an ancient city (Istanbul) and its unique people, seen through the eyes of the most mysterious and beloved animal humans have ever known, the Cat. The film will be in Turkish with English subtitles.

January 31

Turkish Passport Film Showing

5:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m.

303 International Center

Sponsor: Center for European, Russian, and Eurasian Studies, Ames Madison College and the Foreign Service Organization

Event Details: Film screening of “Turkish Passport” the story of diplomats posted to Turkish Embassies and Consulates in several European countries, who saved numerous Jews during the Second World War. Based on the testimonies of witnesses, who traveled to Istanbul to find safety, the Turkish Passport also uses written historical documents and archive footage to tell this story of rescue and bring to light the events of the time. The diplomats did not only save the lives of Turkish Jews. They also rescued foreign Jews condemned to a certain death by giving them Turkish Passports. In this dark period of history, their actions lit the candle of hope and allowed these people to travel to Turkey, where they found light. Turkish snacks and Turkish coffee will be served.

In French, Turkish, and English with English subtitles. Running time 1 hr, 31 minutes.

February 1

“Lamenting Jerusalem in the Medieval Mediterranean”

12:00 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.

303 International Center
Sponsor: Muslim Studies Center

Event Details: Tamar Boyadjian’s research and teaching interests focus on medieval literature and culture. Additional areas of specialization include Medieval English literature; Jerusalem in medieval literature; the crusades and crusading literature; Mediterranean studies; medieval theology and historiography; and literary intersections between Europe and the Middle East in the medieval period. She is also interested in Medievalism –particularly the expression of beliefs and practices of the Middle Ages in contemporary art, film, and pop culture.

Her current book project, The City Lament: Jerusalem in Crusading Narrative, examines the re-presentation of the city of Jerusalem in narratives produced during the crusades in the English, French, Latin, Arabic, and Armenian traditions. In its attempt to challenge hegemonic and entrenched approaches to the study of the crusades and medieval literature, this book project seeks to expose cultural and literary intersections between Western Europe and a number of ethno-religious cultures of the “east,” by arguing for shared modes of representing the loss of the city of Jerusalem in their narratives. In addition to her book project, she is working on a study of the representations of peoples of the “east” –such as the Armenians, Arabs, Mongols, and “Saracens” –in medieval English literature, and the ways in which the literary sources of the “east” characterize England and Western Europe.

Global Business Club of Mid-Michigan: Global Branding

8:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.

MSU Henry Center

Sponsor: Global Business Club

Event Details: Speaker - The Gluten Free Bar. Our morning seminar will focus on the topic of Global Branding; we will explore methods for presenting a consistent brand while tailoring the message to best reach global audiences with unique preferences in the ways they are reached. Our luncheon keynote will be presented by brand owners of The Gluten Free Bar, the Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development's (MDARD) first-ever recipient of the 2017 Michigan export "Rising Star Award." The "Rising Star Award" was created to recognize a company that is new to exporting or is just starting to increase their exports into one or more countries. "The Gluten Free Bar sets a great example for other small- and medium-sized companies as to the opportunities exports provide in generating more sales and growth for a company," said Jamie Clover Adams, MDARD Director. "Exports are critical to the Michigan food and agriculture economy, and companies like The Gluten Free Bar are a vital part of the growth." Join us to find out how they're growing the company through exporting, network with growers and food processors, and learn the ins-and-outs of achieving global success!
