Global Service-Learning: Best Practices for Reciprocal Partnerships and Lasting Sustainability

11:30 AM – 1:00 PM

Lake Superior Room, MSU Union
Sponsor: Education Abroad

Event Details: This workshop will introduce the Community Engaged Learning Abroad Rubric, which has been developed by the Global Service-Learning Advisory committee composed of faculty, staff, and administrators who are working to formalize and promote community-engaged learning courses abroad. Intended for education abroad program leaders, this document offers practical guidance for creating collaborative partnerships that allow for mutual learning and benefit for MSU students, members of the host community, the university, and other stakeholders. After the introduction of the rubric and its rationale, a panel of experienced faculty, staff, and scholars will share their insights about building strong and lasting international partnerships that contribute to student learning while addressing community issues from an asset-based perspective. They will address some of the tensions and challenges that can arise with regard to short-term community engagement projects that endeavor to be reciprocal and mutually beneficial to multiple parties. Panelists will be: Nicole Springer, Associate Director, Center for Service-Learning and Civic Engagement, Dr. Stephanie White, Department of Community Sustainability, International Research & Development Program Specialist, Oumatie Marajh, Assistant Dean for Study Abroad and Study Away, College of Social Science. The event will be moderated by Jean-Paul Sewavi, Coordinator, Office for Education Abroad.

Incitement to Mass Murder: the 1965-68 Indonesian Genocide

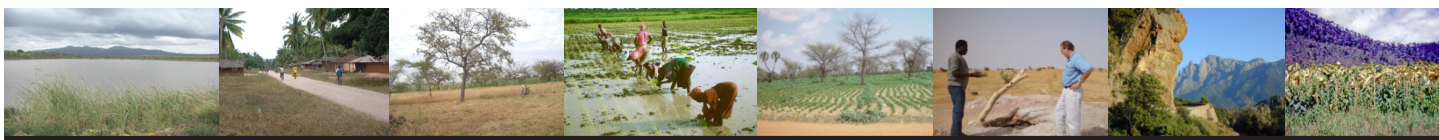

4:00 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.

303 International Center

Event Details: Saskia Wierenga occupies the Chair of Women's Same Sexrelations cross-culturally at the University of Amsterdam. She is also the Chair of the IPT 1965, the Foundation International People's Tribunal on the 1965 Indonesian genocide. She has published more than 30 books and hundreds of articles on women's empowerment and agency worldwide. She is the author of Heteronormativity in Asia (2015) and the forthcoming volume (2018). Propaganda and the genocide in Indonesia; imagined evil. New York: Routledge. The International People's Tribunal on the 1965 Crimes Against Humanity in Indonesia concluded that the propaganda campaign that the army waged against the PKI amounted to persecution through propaganda as a crime against humanity. In this lecture, Wierenga will outline the elements of the propaganda campaign, its religious, nationalist and sexual components, as well as its mechanics. Special attention will be given to the campaign against the women's movement Gerwani, the first sexual moral panic. Though the campaign was unprecedented, it fed on earlier tensions in society. This lecture spans the period of the first nationalist uprisings in 1926 till the present time, when a new sexual moral panic is created, this time focusing on the LGBT community. Year of Global Africa: Distinguished African Leaders to receive Honorary Degrees

1:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Breslin Center, Michigan State University

Event Details: Two prominent African Leaders will be on campus to receive Honorary Degrees during the 2018 Spring Commencement. Michigan State University's commencement ceremonies will be held on May 4th at the Jack Breslin Student Events Center, 534 Birch Road.

Undergraduate Convocation: May 4th - 1:00 p.m.

Justice Albert “Albie” Louis Sachs, activist and former judge on the Constitutional Court of South Africa, will receive an honorary doctorate of law.

Sachs’ career in human rights started at 17, when, as a second-year law student at the University of Cape Town, he participated in the Defiance of Unjust Laws Campaign, which was the first large-scale, multi-racial political mobilization against apartheid laws under a common leadership.

At the age of 21, he started practicing law, working to defend people charged under racist statutes and security laws.

After being placed in solitary confinement, Sachs went into exile in 1966 in England. He spent 11 years studying and teaching law there, followed by another 11 years teaching in Mozambique, South Africa. In 1988, he lost his right arm and sight in one eye after a bomb placed in his car detonated, which inspired him to devote his attention to a new democratic Constitution for South Africa. In 1990, Sachs became a member of the Constitutional Committee and the Africa National Congress in South Africa. Nelson Mandela appointed Sachs to South Africa’s new Constitutional Court in 1994. While serving as a justice on the court, Sachs adjudicated the landmark case Prinsloo vs. Van der Linde, which established the connection between the right to equality and dignity. He’s written many books, including “The Jail Diary of Albie Sachs.”

Advanced degree ceremony: May 4th - 3:30 p.m.

Akinwumi “Akin” Adesina, president of the African Development Bank Group will receive an honorary doctorate of agriculture.

Adesina was elected president of the African Development Bank Group in 2015. He previously served as Nigeria’s minister of agriculture and rural development. During his tenure, he established transformative agriculture policies and empowered millions of rural farmers through the introduction of an electronic wallet system that provided seeds and fertilizers to farmers. Adesina has received a number of global awards for his work in agriculture, including the 2017 World Food Prize and the Outstanding Black Agricultural Economist from the American Association of Agricultural Economists. A respected economist and agricultural development expert, he has served as vice president of the Alliance for a Green Revolution in Africa and as associate director of the Rockefeller Foundation. Adesina also was principal economist for three organizations: The International Institute of Tropical Agriculture, the West Africa Rice Development Association and the International Crop Research Institute for the Semi-Arid Tropics. In addition, he is a former president of the African Association of Agricultural Economics. Adesina has written more than 70 publications, and he has sat on the editorial boards of several academic journals.

Commencements are free and open to the public. The convocation will also be live streamed and can be watched at <https://commencement.msu.edu/>.

Request for Research Proposals: Tanzania Partnership Program

Application Deadline: April 23, 2018

The MSU Tanzania Partnership Program announces a Request for Research Proposals: Tanzanian Partnership Program (TPP) is a long-term, collaborative alliance of local and international organizations dedicated to improving local livelihoods. TPP's mission is to promote resilient communities in developing countries and create a model for sustainable prosperity. TPP has released a Request for Proposals for research grants to support:

- TPP strategic priorities: Community Empowerment and Resilience; Water Access and Quality; Education Access and Quality; Human Health Access and Quality; Animal Health and Resources; Food Security, Agriculture and Economic Development
- Research methodologies that generate new knowledge in TPP priority areas within the context of community development and empower communities to co-create innovative, sustainable solutions and improve lives.
- Research processes that embody TPP's community-engaged approach as articulated in TPP core principles: sustainable, integrative, interdisciplinary, participatory, adaptive, and collaborative.
- Interdisciplinary workgroups committed to an inclusive, adaptive design approach (e.g. human-centered design), co-led by faculty members at MSU and Tanzanian universities, and comprised of inclusive partners from local communities, governments, non-governmental organizations, and industry.

TPP research grants will provide funding for two years with a total amount not exceeding $25,000. The application deadline is April 23, 2018. Proposals should be submitted to pscdtpp@msu.edu. Interested applicants are encouraged to review the Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) and register for a webinar on March 29 via the TPP website <http://pscd.isp.msu.edu/>.
